The song also serves as the lead single from their debut album, Supply & Demand (2007). The song features a guest appearance from fellow American rapper Lil Wayne and was produced by M16 and Liam Kantwill. The song peaked in the Top 40 of the U.S. Billboard Hot 100, reaching number 15. Music video The music video directed by Disturbing the Peace CEO Chaka Zulu [1] begins with Tity Boi getting up from bed for breakfast. He gets dressed and rides in a Lamborghini Gallardo, in which he picks up Lil Wayne, handing him a duffel bag. They then head to a concert. Meanwhile, Dolla Boy sells some CDs to a boy in exchange for a duffel bag, then receives a text message to meet Tity Boi and Lil Wayne. At the end of the video, all three of them are seen performing together. Remix versions The official remix features Birdman, Juelz Santana and a new verse from Lil Wayne (who only sang the song's chorus in the original version). At the 2007 BET Hip Hop Awards, Playaz Circle and Lil Wayne performed the song with a new guest verse from fellow hip-hop rapper and DTP label-boss Ludacris. Miami-based rapper Lil' Brianna, released a freestyle over the song's instrumental for her 2007 mixtape, Princess of Miami. UK rapper Kano, released a freestyle over the song's instrumental for his MC No.1 mixtape. Other remixes include a Travis Barker remix and a Sean P remix, respectively. Hip-hop rappers Rick Ross and Young Jeezy also have their own respective remixes. In other media The song was used by comedian/actor Chris Rock as the music he exited the stage to on his 2008 'No Apologies' tour. As well as his entrance theme song to his show "Kill the Messenger". Canadian rapper Drake uses Lil Wayne's lyrics of "Duffle Bag Boy" for his song "Underground Kings" from his second studio album Take Care.
